A Publication Of Brethren Village

Resident Spotlight: Herwig Schutzler, Haunted by World War II

There is no question that Brethren Village attracts Residents from a diverse array of backgrounds—and our campus is a trove of amazing stories from vibrant, well-lived lives. Some of these stories are incredible eyewitness accounts of the most intense moments in history.

One BV Resident, Herwig G. Schutzler, has certainly lived through more than one individual's share of such extraordinary events. We are grateful that he recently completed the project of collecting his personal life experiences in an autobiography, Haunted by World War II.

As the cover of the book notes, Herwig's is "one story out of 15 million," but what's significant is that most of those voices were silenced and those stories remain lost to history. With encouragement from a friend and participation in the project from his beloved wife, Heidi, Herwig has given us an account of a refugee crisis that many of us in America know little about.

His is not a typical war story, which tends to be told from the perspective of the victors in battle. Herwig's story is that of unimaginable human tragedy—the horrors of ordinary people forced to flee brutality, death, and destruction of their homeland.

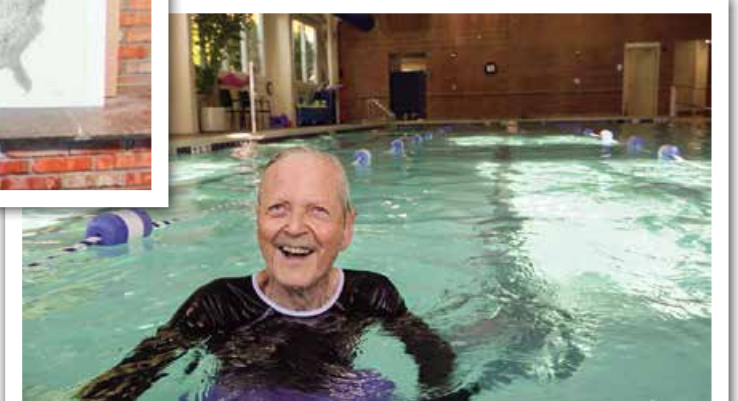

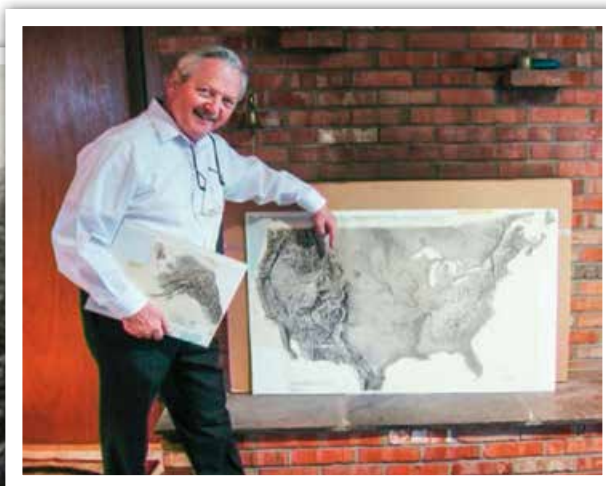

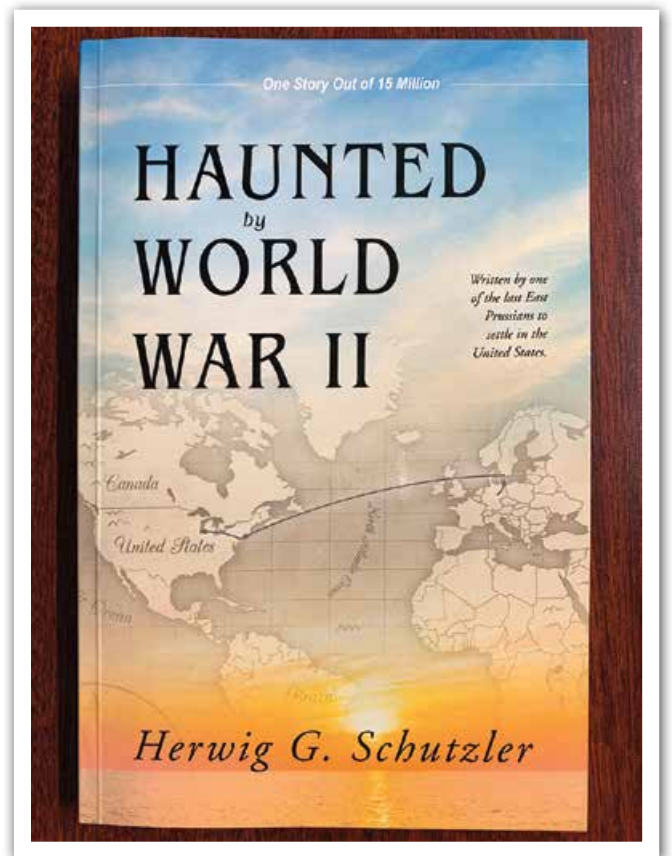

Born in 1936 in East Prussia, Herwig was just a boy when World War II exploded in Europe, expelling his family—and about 15 million other German civilians—from areas that would later become part of the Soviet Union or other countries. About 2 million people died during these so-called "removals" of native citizens.

Later, as a teenager, Herwig made another daring escape. This time, in 1955, he and his brother, Wolfgang, finally managed to flee the oppressive rule of the Soviets and "dash to freedom" in West Germany. For a second time in his young life, he was a refugee.

Luckily, the story gets sweeter as time progresses. Herwig eventually emigrated to the United States with Heidi and had a successful career as a cartographer. The Schutzlers raised two sons and have had many memorable travel experiences—including two trips back to the former East Prussia—which are also shared in the book.

As Herwig recently noted during an interview with BV President John Snader, "life goes on...if we get stopped by it, we don't progress." He does not hold any bitterness over his tragic experiences in his childhood and youth. Instead, he expresses profound gratitude and hopes his story might inspire future generations.

Curious to learn more details about Herwig's life and incredible experiences? We invite you to watch his recent "Jabbering with John" interview on our YouTube channel: youtu.be/ZGooCc3nFDk. His book is also available for purchase in the BV Village Center Gift Shop, with all proceeds benefitting our Good Samaritan Fund.

Manheim Township School District

Brethren Village and Manheim Township have a meaningful partnership that continues to grow with various intergenerational programs and activities throughout the year. BV Residents enjoy giving back to the local school district. This year, during BV's Summer Camp in June, Resident volunteers packed hygiene and cleaning kits for the Manheim Township School District Care Closet. The Care Closet provides necessary cleaning and personal hygiene items to school district families in need. BV Residents put together 50 cleaning kits and 50 hygiene kits to be donated to the Care Closet project. BV is Blue Streak Proud!

Donations from a 5th Sunday offering in BV's Chapel were used to purchase the items.
